Bridge debris to cause delays

Investigators will be at the Calf Robe Bridge today to ensure the site is safe ◗ No injuries were reported from the incident ◗ The scheduled completion date for construction, weather permitting, is mid-October

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Construction on the Calf Robe Bridge has been halted after concrete pieces fell to the water and ground below yesterday morning.

Duty Insp. James Hardy said boaters placed a call to inform emergency services of falling debris from the Deerfoot Trail bridge.

OHS spokesperson Fiona Wiseman said the incident happened while workers were jack-hammering.

"They had put up some plywood but there was a gap in between and concrete fell through."

Alberta Transportation spokesperson Tammy Forbes said it's too soon to tell how long this delay will be.

"Occupational health and safety is looking at the situation so it would be far too soon to speculate on the impact on construction at all."

The project, like many others throughout the province, has also experienced some rain delays, according to Forbes.

Legion pays respects to fallen soldiers

JEREMY NOLAIS

Cpl. Mathew Ricard survived not one brush with death, but three.

During his 10-month tour in Afghanistan, three bombs detonated in the Calgary native's vicinity, leaving him with some hearing loss and ongoing back pain after one blast threw him onto a piece of metal.

Others were not so fortunate.

Yesterday, Ricard and dozens of fellow veterans gathered at Calgary's centennial branch legion to pay their respects to those killed in the nearly 10-year effort overseas.

"My whole family served," Ricard said. "My dad, my dad's dad. It's important to come to these events."

Numerous government officials joined legion members for the sombre ceremony, including Jonathan Denis, minister of housing and urban affairs.

He spoke about the importance of keeping legion traditions alive.

"I think it's important to have a place like there where there is camaraderie amongst them all," Denis said, noting his own father served in the military.

Joey Bleviss, past president of the centennial branch, admitted that maintaining membership is an ongoing struggle.

"It seems as if the remembrance stops at the Korean War," he said. "I think it's because we don't do enough to educate the citizens."

Although New York City was left relatively unscathed by Hurricane Irene, Calgarians in the Big Apple said the powerful storm has put a damper on their plans.

Nina Vaughan, deputy commander with Calgary's Public Safety Communications, is currently in New York with several other emergency service workers for the World Police and Fire Games.

"All events scheduled for late yesterday and today have been cancelled, which has been heartbreaking for those athletes that have trained hard for their events," said Vaughan, who is competing in golf.

Kelsey Chadwick is scheduled to fly out of New York today but is preparing to spend her 23rd birthday tomorrow in the airport.

"They say 1,200 flights will be affected and Newark, where we are flying from, is dealing with some major flooding issues right now, so we will just have to wait and see."

One year ago Saturday Calgarian Kari Peperkorn Marlowe moved to New York, and she said in her time there she's never seen the city so "eerily desolate."

"Where tourists typically swarm around the New York Stock Exchange, the only movement consisted of a few lone workers piling sandbags," she said. "I've never seen New York quieter." KATIE TURNER

Typhoon kills 10 in the Philippines

Typhoon Nanmadol began blowing toward Taiwan yesterday after leaving at least 10 people dead and scuttling a visit by a U.S. Navy carrier group in the Philippines, officials said.

Taiwan issued sea and land warnings and planned to evacuate about 6,000 people in its eastern and southern regions. Troops and rescue equipment were deployed.

The typhoon drenched the northern Philippines with rain for days before pummeling the area with fierce wind, setting off landslides and floods and toppling walls that left at least six others missing. About 20 were injured by landslides and toppled trees, said Benito Ramos, who heads the Office of Civil Defence.

Domestic airlines also cancelled more than a dozen flights in northern and central Philippines.

Nanmadol had sustained wind of 195 kilometres per hour and gusts of 230 kph Friday, becoming the strongest typhoon to hit the Philippines so far this year. It weakened after grazing northern Cagayan province Saturday.

Nanmadol was expected to hit Taiwan today, Taiwan's weather bureau said. It urged residents to prepare for strong winds and torrential rain, and warned of landslides.

Irene's punch not as packed in N.Y.

Storm knocked out power to 4.5 million on Eastern Seaboard At least 15 people died in the chaos

Stripped of hurricane rank, Tropical Storm Irene spent the last of its fury yesterday, leaving treacherous flooding and millions without power — but an unfazed New York and relief that it was nothing like the nightmare authorities feared.

The East Coast surveyed the damage, up to $7 billion US by one private estimate, and worried of danger still lurking: The possibility of rivers and streams swelling with rainwater and overflowing in coming days.

The nation's most populous region began the arduous process of getting back to normal. New York lifted its evacuation order for 370,000 people and said it hoped to have its subway rolling again today. Philadelphia restarted its trains and buses.

"All in all," New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg said, "we are in pretty good shape."

The centre of Irene passed over Central Park with the storm packing 105-kilometre per hour winds. By evening, it brushed over New England and moved east at 80 kilometres per hour. It was expected to drift into Canada later yesterday or early today. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Travellers wait on flights

Travellers across the nation waited for flights to resume in and out of East Coast airports that were closed by Tropical Storm Irene this weekend.

Federal officials said airports reopened around Washington, which took a glancing blow from Irene.

American Airlines said it was resuming flights at the three major airports around the capital. New York-area airports remained closed yesterday morning. The longer that New York's Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark, N.J., airports are shuttered, the worse it will be.

Airlines said passengers should call ahead and make sure they have a confirmed seat before going to the airport.

▶ Niagara Falls is illuminated in orange to honour the late New Democratic Party leader Jack Layton on Saturday, the day of his state funeral in Toronto.

Layton's legacy already being felt: McDonough

Former NDP leader says Quebec was key to Layton's success

Jack Layton's ability to connect with Quebecers and tap into their social-democratic sentiments were key to his success, and will be key to any future success of those who come after him, one of his predecessors said Saturday.

At the same time, former NDP leader Alexa McDonough said, people are already picking up where Layton left off in terms of his nation-building.

"He had spent his entire adult life influencing people to take up the social democratic cause," McDonough said in an interview.

"You can already see that he's reached beyond the grave in terms of challenging people to carry on."

McDonough said Layton managed to tap into something that none of his predecessors, herself included, were able to do.

Part of that success, she said, was Layton's "cachet" at having been born in Quebec and his ability to speak French fluently.

But there was something even more important to his ability to connect with Quebecers in their own language.

"He also understood at a really deep level that Quebecers were, at the very core, social democrats," McDonough said.

Still, McDonough said, whether the New Democrats could find another leader to continue its recent successes without Layton remained to be seen.

"What the party can do from here on in, we'll see unfold," McDonough said

STATE FUNERAL

Funeral's tone unique

An unconventional state funeral for former NDP leader Jack Layton took on the verve of a political rally Saturday, as friends and family tried to galvanize the national grief over the loss of his passionate voice into a call to action.

Elder NDP statesman Stephen Lewis led the charge, earning loud cheers and standing ovations as he extolled the virtues of Layton's social democratic vision for Canada.

With a political who's-who of all stripes in the audience, even staunch Conservatives like Prime Minister Stephen Harper joined the crowd in applause as Lewis rattled off a host of Layton's New Democrat-friendly causes such as gay rights, housing and the environment.

Layton's final letter to Canadians, which has resonated with so many in the days since his death, was "at its heart, a manifesto for social democracy," the former Ontario NDP leader and one-time Canadian ambassador said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians in mourning

Jack Layton's death last Monday at the age of 61 was a shock, and the ensuing tide of grief has been no less of a surprise.

Tributes to the late NDP leader sprang up across the country in the days following his passing.

Canadians again flocked to pay their respects on Saturday, lining downtown streets by the thousands, clad in NDP orange and swaddled in Canadian flags, as Layton's state funeral marked the end of one of the most remarkable political grieving periods in modern Canadian history.

▶ Air Canada agents process passengers in Halifax earlier this year. In the company's latest labour setback, its flight attendants rejected a tentative agreement reached this month.

Flight attendants reject latest offer

Union says 87.8 per cent of those who voted turned down agreement Morale low, says union rep

The head of the union representing Air Canada flight attendants hopes the federal government won't intervene in their escalating labour dispute.

Jeff Taylor, president of the Air Canada component of CUPE, says he wants the government to respect the union's right to collective bargaining.

But he says it's difficult to predict what the Conservatives will do, noting they were about to legislate striking customer service staff back to work.

The customer service agents hastily reached a new contract with the airline in June before the government lowered its legislative hammer.

The flight attendants have overwhelmingly rejected a tentative agreement reached with the airline this month.

CUPE says it is organizing a strike vote for next month and wants to restarting negotiations.

Air Canada issued a statement Saturday acknowledging the rejection by the flight attendants and declined to comment Sunday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Using an old TV antenna? Expect snowy conditions

Canadians with cable or satellite TV won't be affected, but viewers who have old televisions and rely on antennas for over-the-air reception can expect "snow" on their screens as broadcasters move to digital signals by Wednesday.

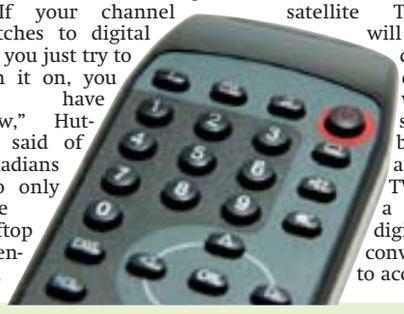
About 850,000 Canadian households don't subscribe to cable or satellite TV services, said Scott Hutton, the CRTC's executive director of broadcasting.

"If your channel switches to digital and you just try to turn it on, you will have snow," Hutton said of Canadians who only have rooftop antennas, or rabbit ears and older TVs.

"It just won't be broadcasting anymore," he said.

The bulk of the households are in urban markets, he said, noting that Montreal probably has lowest level of cable or satellite penetration among large centres because those living near Mont-Royal mountain get good reception without it.

These viewers — if they don't subscribe to cable or satellite TV — will need a digital converter set-top box, or a newer TV with a built-in digital converter to access the digital feeds.



The CBC has been granted another year to finalize the transition from over-the-air analog signals. It may seek another extension. THE CANADIAN PRESS

LITTLE HEART OF GOLD FOR ANIMATOR

URBAN COMPASS

JANICE PASKEY
METRO CALGARY

I don't know about you. But winning the 2011 Gold Kahuna Award for Animation in Honolulu strikes me as a pretty cool thing. Janna-Marynn Brunnen created the story of love lost, "Little Heart" at Quickdraw Animation.

It's an organization that operates in a darkish, creaky space above a downtown Asian restaurant.

Quickdraw was started by a few Calgarians who liked cartoons. Over three decades, it's blossomed into a centre for animation artists, and teens and aboriginal youth.

As Calgary adopts the plucky notion of becoming the Cultural Capital of Canada in 2012, artists like Brunnen show what an arts life looks like. She is a graduate of the National Theatre School, worked in theatre for five years, but stumbled upon Quickdraw's Giraf animation festival. "It blew me away; this is an art form that inspired me." Brunnen, 29, is flower designer by day, and won a National Film Board scholarship to support her animation education.

> ANIMATION ARTIST JANNA-MARYNN BRUNNEN

You may know the super realistic animations of studios like Pixar, but Brunnen wanted something different. She handdrew her images and layered paint on glass. "I work in textures and paints and I love the imperfections, I love the depth of field with the paint, the visuals you can't get with computers alone." Little Heart isn't online yet, in order to qualify for festivals. And Brunnen hopes her style continues to resonate. "I think people always want to see something new, to see development."

Hannah Arendt once defined arts as activities removed from everyday necessities. Roads, intersections, tunnels, bridges, traffic. The stuff we are usually occupied with in Calgary can get a bit tedious. The arts allow us a welcome reprieve and to imagine and to create — or admire those who do.

The Calgary Public Library has a ramped up arts offering this fall. Quickdraw is offering free seminars (register via the library tomorrow at 10 a.m.) but there are Arts Days workshops and day long celebrations, too. Many programs are already full indicating the hunger for arts.

As we head into Calgary 2012, it's a good time to celebrate our strengths. Brunnen sees Calgary as still very open to new artists. "What I would love to see is mingling of the art forms. If there's a theatre festival let's have performers outside, and musicians, too."

New school of freedom

ATHENS, GA. As college students return to campus in Georgia, a new state policy has closed the doors of the five most competitive state schools to illegal immigrants, but a group of professors has found a way to offer those students a taste of what they've been denied.

The five University of Georgia professors have started a program they're calling Freedom University. They're offering to teach a rigorous seminar course once a week meant to mirror courses taught at the most competitive schools and aimed at students who have graduated from high school but can't go to one of those top schools because of the new policy or because of cuts to state scholarship programs.

"What we're hoping is that people in decision-making positions will reconsider the policy," said Reinaldo Roman, one of the organizing professors. "It goes counter to our aims. We have invested enormous resources in these young people." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Not too posh to push around a cop in Mexico

An odd instance of police abuse in which two snobby women shoved, slapped and insulted a cop has captured Mexico's attention and sparked debate on police tactics, gender and class issues.

Tapes of the late-night confrontation on Aug. 20 in the upscale Mexico City neighbourhood of Polanco became a hit on social networking and video-sharing sites, exposing Mexicans' frustration with both the arrogant rich and ineffectual police.

Pulled over in a traffic stop, the two women shout, swear, shove and slap a policeman, who does nothing to resist. He tries to calm them, moves away several times and eventually allows them to drive away.

One of the women, a former Puebla state beauty queen identified as Maria Vanessa Polo Cajica, can be heard on the video waving her hand in front of the officer's face, insulting his mother and calling him a "crappy wage slave."

Police chief Manuel Mondragon said the officers were waiting for a backup unit of female officers to detain the pair, because male cops only physically detain women if someone's safety is at risk. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hosting battles resume

Wrestlers, social butterflies and a straight-laced couple sharpen their knives and wits as the second season of Dinner Party Wars begins

HANNAH ZITNER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

In a suburban kitchen on the outer edge of Toronto, half-cooked steak, mystery fish eggs and a whole lot of vodka set the scene for an "interesting" Russian-style dinner party.

Known more for their ability to throw a wild soirée than master a dinner party, hosts Erina Karamani and Elena Morozovathe focus their hosting energy on the entertainment portion of the evening: vodka shots, a martini demonstration and raunchy question period.

On the set of the reality show Dinner Party Wars, where teams take turns trying to one-up each others culinary prowess, hosting grace and entertainment abilities, the 24-year old hosts are delivered bad news moments before their guests arrive.

"That's not caviar," celebrity chef Corbin Tomaszeski tells the 24-year-old hosts. "That's roe."

Starring blankly at each other, the two blonds dressed in animal prints have to think quickly.

"Maybe it's their strategy to appear like dumb blonds who don't know what they're doing," says fellow contestant Greg Danakas. "But I'm sure they're not (dumb blonds) and they will really surprise us."

Having grown up in the stock room of his parents' restaurant, Danakas says he and his wife Helen make a perfect hosting team.

"I do the cooking and he does the entertaining," she says adding his career as a high school drama teacher is evidence he's not one to shy away from centre stage.

What happens when you throw two wrestlers, a conservative couple and a life-of-the-party duo into a ring with a bottle of tequila? The season premier of Dinner Party Wars airs Wednesday at 10 p.m. ET/PT on Food Network Canada.

Party tips

- Chef Corbin
  Preparation, preparation, preparation. The number one reason people fail at dinner parties, says Corbin, is because they don't think ahead. "They fly by the seat of their pants and more often than not, are caught with them down."
- Cook what you know, know what you cook. "Too often we have people who want to play chef and cook things far too complicated," says Corbin. Usually, the show-off chef fails. Keeping things simple is the key to success.
- Anthea Turner, etiquette guru
  Get it done. Finishing chores well in advance leaves more time for the hosts to entertain. "Set the table the night before and get your clothes ready," says Turner, who confesses she sometimes lays plates and cutlery two nights before a shindig.
- Clean it! "Many times there's a toothbrush, bleach bottle or remnants of kid's potty in the washroom. I don't want to see any of that," says Turner. Paying attention to the small details goes a long way: Fresh soap, a clean hand towel and extra toilet roll are musts when hosting.

HOLLY RAMER/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Reversible bucket hats are just one of the many projects in Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew by Liesl Gibson.

Last-minute summer projects

Making clothes with your kids' input is a great way to bond ◗ Try bucket hats as a start

Making a bucket hat probably isn't on anyone's bucket list, but maybe it should be.

The reversible bucket hat in the book Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew (STC Craft, 2011) is classic, cute and comfortable. And author Liesl Gibson maintains that making it is a treat for grown-ups as well as the young recipients.

Sewing, for Gibson, is "almost a luxury." It "buys you some time to do something creative with your hands. When many of us work on computers and aren't doing much with our hands, there's a satisfaction in creating."

Gibson, a former clothing designer, began designing patterns for children's clothing several years ago, for her young daughter.

STC CRAFT/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When others started asking for her patterns, she launched her Oliver + S line of patterns, and followed up with the book. It includes new takes on classic items such as a messenger bag, art smock and tutu. Gibson designed an "explorer vest" with lots of pockets after watching her daughter and friends gather stones, twigs and other little treasures.

Gibson said she's been encouraged to see many women learning to sew when they become mothers. But she also believes her patterns and projects have a broader appeal, to anyone interested in sewing for children because it doesn't take much fabric and doesn't involve the fussy fitting issues that make sewing adult clothes difficult.

"I think the big surprise for me was that it wasn't such a small audience," she said.

While children likely would find some of the toy projects more appealing, the classic clothing and accessory designs lend themselves to experimenting with a variety of fabrics. The bucket hat, for example, can be customized by using a patterned fabric featuring a particular child's interests.

And a child who might otherwise balk at wearing a hat might embrace one that he or she had a hand in.

As with many of the book's projects, Gibson designed the hat with her daughter in mind. But it works just as well for boys.

The hat is reversible, so you can choose two favourite fabrics, or you could put a pocket on the outside.

It is rated "two scissors" because it requires sewing curved seams and topstitching, but no one step is complicated.

"It's small enough that you can make a bunch," Gibson said.

3. Oven Method: Preheat oven to 200 C (400 F) and place pizzas directly on centre rack. Bake for 7 minutes. Broil on high for 2 minutes to brown vegetables, if desired.

Mediterranean Pizza

Here is a different slant on making pizza at home. This variation uses a Greek yogurt dip in place of tomato sauce, then topped with Mediterranean ingredients.

It makes a healthy and novel way to present one of our favourite snacks.

Preparation:

1. Preheat oven to 200 C (400 F). Generously mist a pizza pan with non-stick vegetable oil spray.
2. Bake crust for 8 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. (Baking times may vary depending upon type of pizza crust.)
3. Spread dip over hot crust. Top with spinach, artichokes, tomatoes, olives, feta cheese and pepper. Return pizza to oven for 5 to 7 minutes. Cut and serve.

Working on plan bee

What's happening to Canada's honey bees? Crucial to our survival, these incredible insects help pollinate the majority of the world's food crops Photographer Geoff Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of those trying to help

"The term CCD (colony collapse disorder) was first coined in the later part of 2006 when there was a huge rise in the number of honey bees that began disappearing from their hives in North America and Europe," says photographer Geoff Fitzgerald.

"The main reason is still unknown; however there are many proposed causes like malnutrition, pathogens, mites, fungus and pesticides. Many scientists believe this phenomenon is caused by a combination of these factors; it is still hard to say."

Living in downtown Toronto, Fitzgerald never thought beekeeping in the city was possible. That was until he heard about the hives on the roof of the Fairmont Royal York Hotel.

Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of the Royal York, along with those by the Canadian Opera Company at the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts and University of Toronto campuses.

Fitzgerald hopes to expand the series to include Fairmont hotels in Vancouver, Quebec and Calgary.

He also wants to photograph hives at Vancouver's city hall and the convention centre.

"I wanted to shoot these photographs as environmental portraits, not just close-ups of bees but to really show the urban environment, rooftop location and its surroundings.

I wanted the viewer to see the (person) behind the mask, to see how proud and passionate they are of their busy, hard working girls."

MAKE YOUR H.E. WASHING MACHINE EVEN GREENER

I found your green cleaning recipes online and I wonder what you mean by 'soap granules' used in the liquid laundry soap recipe. Would this alternative be safe to use in high efficiency (H.E.) front load machines? Marie, Guelph, Ont.

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA

Welcome to the rid-your-home-of-toxic-chemicals-and-petroleum-based-ingredients club!

Tested by yours truly, my homemade green cleaning recipes are versatile, affordable and eco-friendly.

Soap granules or flakes are just that: bits of soap that cut grease and lift dirt.

Look for brands that are biodegradable, petroleum-free, without added fragrance or perfumes, and not tested on animals.

If you can't find soap granules in the laundry aisle of your grocery store, try a local health food store or search online.

You can also make your own — grate a bar of soap or use those leftover soap slivers.

Still stumped? I've added another DIY recipe using liquid castile soap, which is made of plant oils like coconut, olive and hemp.

Look for liquid castile soap in the laundry or personal care products aisles of your grocery or local health food store, or purchase online.

All of my laundry soap recipes work in cold water and in H.E. machines.

Since water hardness varies across the country, it's best to test them yourself and see the amount you'll need to add per load.

H.E. machines use less water, so the general rule is that you can use less soap!

How to change your status from intern to staff

DREW HINSHAW
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

ISTOCK

▶ It is a rare breed of worker that can make the intern-to-employee leap immediately. Be patient and resourceful.

Here's one way to make something out of nothing: Turn your unpaid, unappreciated summer internship into a salaried job. Cha-ching!

Too bad the giant leap from intern wolf pack to payroll happens less regularly than graduating seniors often assume, career counsellors warn.

"Students shouldn't put too much pressure on themselves to turn their specific internships into jobs," says Lauren Berger, an author and self-proclaimed "Intern Queen". "The reality is that not every internship is used as a recruitment tool."

"End of internship preparations should start two weeks before the end date."
LAUREN BERGER, AUTHOR AND SELF-PROCLAIMED 'INTERNSHIP QUEEN'

That said, make the right impression, and your corporate overlords and fellow interns could be the link to your first out-of-college job.

"Really, really focus on building your network at your internship and build real relationships with as many executives, coordinators, assistants as you can," Berger encourages. "When you leave it's important to stay in touch with those people and let them know what it is you want to do."

Not every internship is a sure leg up, says Samer Hamadeh, author of The Internship Bible.

"But even bad internships help you figure out the jobs you don't want," he notes. Or they can lead to the jobs you really do want, he adds.

"While you're there, get lunch with assistants — they can be more effective than a higher level executive," Berger suggests. "They're in the loop. They know what jobs are available, and where they're available."

BEFORE YOU GO

"End of internship preparations should start two weeks before the end date," advises Berger. "Request your letters of recommendations early. Executives take forever on those."

Make sure you get coffee or lunch with your intern coordinator, too, she adds.

"That's the time for the student, if they are interested in a job, to express that," she explains.

KEEP IN TOUCH

"Anyone who you meet during the internship, keep track of those people's first and last names, and when it comes time to leave the internship, any executive, any employee who helped you, even the janitor, write a thank you note, handwritten," Berger urges. "Three times a year — Fall, Spring, Summer — you want to reach out to those people."

From duct taping dresses to community outreach Securing a scholarship is no longer dependent on grades

According to a 2010 Statistics Canada report, the percentage of students who graduate saddled with debt has risen over the past decade from 49 per cent to 57 per cent.

But what if someone told you there are millions of dollars available in scholarships and bursaries, many of which go unclaimed every year?

Read on for tips to help you secure your diploma without breaking the bank.

Do your research

Don't discount yourself based on your grades. There are scholarships available for everything from enjoying curling to being tall.

Winners of the Stuck at Prom scholarship get $5,000 for making their prom outfits out of duct tape, while the Harmony Movement hands out $1,000 to 10 students who create change in their communities.

Peruse websites like Studentawards.com and ScholarshipsCanada.com, which have extensive databases of awards.

Chris Wilkins, president of Edge Interactive, says 81 per cent of the awards on ScholarshipsCanada.com don't require an academic average, and 70 per cent don't require students to demonstrate financial need.

Apply!

Norman Seguin, a financial services administrator at the University of Ottawa says there are plenty of bursaries at the school that go unclaimed.

"There's a lot of money down here, and unfortunately it's not always easy to distribute the money with the lack of demand from the students," says Seguin.

Peter Flynn, 21, suggests setting aside a block of time every night to apply for scholarships.

"There's a lot of money down here, and unfortunately it's not always easy to distribute with the lack of demand from students."
NORMAN SEQUIN, FINANCIAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATOR, UNIVERSITY OF OTTAWA

The University of Toronto law school student managed to cover all of his tuition and about half of his living costs during his undergraduate studies at the University of Ottawa with scholarship money.

Check back often

"There isn't a scholarship season," says Tyson. "Companies decide at any time of year that they want to put money out into the marketplace to help students."

There may be more scholarships available during some months than others. For instance, about 13 per cent of the awards on ScholarshipsCanada.com have an April deadline, while only one per cent are due in December.

But there are awards available all throughout the year, says Wilkins, so it's a good idea to keep checking back every month.

And many universities have awards available to second-, third- and fourth-year students, so keep looking for opportunities beyond your first year.

Nice guys often do come in last

Study shows that the mean ones at the office make a bit more moola So which kind of co-worker are you?

A study presented in San Antonio, Texas, has shown that the people at work who make things miserable for everyone else, are actually the highest earners.

The study, called Do Nice Guys — and Gals —Really Finish Last?, by Dr. Beth Livingston, Timothy A. Judge of the University of Notre Dame and Charlice Hurst of the University of Western Ontario, looks into "agreeableness" and its effect on income.

The researchers analyzed information from three different studies that surveyed 10,000 workers over about 20 years. They found that men who measured "less agreeable" earned more — 18 per cent more — than their nice guy counterparts. That's about $9,972 more a year for being a jerk.

"Nice guys do not necessarily finish last, but they do finish a distant second in terms of earnings," the study says.

Ladies, it goes for you, too. Less agreeable women earn about five per cent more than those of us who abide by common niceties.

So why doesn't the old adage "do to others as you would have them do to you" pay off?

According to the study, "people who are low in agreeableness may be perceived as more competent by virtue of their lack of warmth." METRO

Valedictorian Jemy Joseph says she owes much to her teachers who pushed her to put her best foot forward

TURNING POINT

"Teachers are angels disguised as humans".

Jemy Joseph looked out from the podium to her graduating class at Francis Libermann School.

How far she had come since arriving at the age of 14 from India feeling scared and confused about life in a strange new country.

"I was verbally abused and bullied by other students."

It was her Canadian teachers that provided the turning point for Jemy in her early years in Canada.

"They dragged me into extracurricular activities. I joined the band and became the editor of the yearbook."

Under the gentle guidance and leadership of her teachers, Jemy graduated with top honours and is now pursuing a Master's degree in Cardiovascular Sciences at the University of Ottawa.

"I will be a doctor and I'd like to focus on public health, preventative medicine and health policy."

We are now on the threshold of a new school year and this is Jemy Joseph's love letter to all the teachers who helped her and scores of young people fit in, learn and succeed:

To all of our teachers in life, we say thank you.

Lincicome weathers storm

American beats poor conditions to win Canadian Women's Open

Brittany Lincicome put a new spin on the old show tune Singing In the Rain as she gritted her way through a storm to victory in the $2.2-million CN Canadian Women's Open.

The 25-year-old American made a dramatic par save in a driving rain to close with a 2-under 70 and edge defending champion Michelle Wie and Stacy Lewis by one stroke at Hillsdale Golf Club yesterday in Mirabel, Que.

Lincicome, who earned $331,492, said she kept herself calm by singing country songs to herself as she parred the final six holes to stay ahead of Lewis and hold off Wie, the winner last year in Winnipeg. Wie sank long putts at the 15th and 17th to make it close with an even-par 72.

Lewis had put up the low score of the day — a 67 on a day in which only 16 of 78 were under par — more than an hour earlier.

"I was very patient, singing a lot of songs, very chatty," said Lincicome, who said singing to herself is part of her sports psychology program to stay focused. "The weather was not great, but I was still having fun."

In her post-match interview, she cautioned that "I'm not a good singer, so I'm not singing for you."

The victory was nearly as sweet for her caddy, former LPGA regular A.J. Eathorne of Penticton, B.C., whose own playing career has been on hold since 2009.

Lincicome pulled her tee shot on 18 into a tent and had to take a drop, but managed to get the ball up near the green, chip it close and make the winning putt. She also had fine saves on the eighth and ninth.

"I'm growing as a golfer, I guess," said Lincicome. "If this would have happened a couple of years ago, I'm not sure how I would have handled it."

Playing in the last group, Wie needed birdie on 18 to force a playoff, but missed the green to the right and left her chip shot wide and short. She made the putt to keep a share of second place and win $174,812.

Fears that the final round would be washed out by remnants of Tropical Storm Irene did not pan out. Rain and nasty gusts of wind hit the lead groups about midway through their rounds, but nothing that would force a stoppage in play. THE CANADIAN PRESS.

- Sixteen-year-old Jisoo Keel of Coquitlam, B.C., was the low amateur at the Canadian Open at 4 over.
